RECOMMENDED YARD FOR CALIFORNIA DESERT AND TEXAS TORTOISES
Be sure to read complete care sheets for Gopherus Tortoises

- ENCLOSURE: Escape-proof (safe from digging and climbing).
Concrete or brick under the fence to prevent digging.
Solid fence (chain link is not acceptable unless 18 to 24 inches of board is covering the fence bottom).
Barrier to prevent escape through gate accidentally left open.
Grassy area of Bermuda, Fescue, or other suitable grass.
Non-poisonous plants, to provide shade. (preferably native, drought-tolerant plants)
Sunny and shady areas available at all times.
- SHELTER: Dry house (see care sheets) or you may bring your tortoise inside your house at night.
Shade from shrubs and bushes - natives preferred.
Cool, dry place indoors for winter hibernation.
- DIET: A diet as close as possible to a natural diet is encouraged.
Recommended in captivity: 95% grazing grass, weeds, flowers; 5% purchased greens avoid fruit. (see care sheets).
Fresh water must be available at all times.
- SAFETY: Protect from dogs, coyotes, raccoons, foxes.
Eliminate access to swimming pool, pond or spa.
Remove poisonous plants from tortoise area. (read Plants That Poison #070)
Never use insecticides or fertilizers in tortoise area.
Eliminate access to hazards such as stairs, storage areas, and garages.
When outside, hatchlings must have a wire cover over the enclosure.
- HEALTH: Quarantine your new tortoise for at least a week, unless this is your only tortoise.
Desert Tortoises and Texas Tortoises must not be kept with any other species.
Male Desert Tortoises, Texas males, and many other species must have separate enclosures - they will fight and can cause severe injury or death.
Veterinary care after a reasonable period is your responsibility.
- REGISTRATION: It is recommended that you register your Desert Tortoises with the California Department of Fish and Game. Forms are available through this Society.
- COMMITMENT: Desert Tortoises routinely outlive their care givers. Arrangements must be made for their continuing care. If you are no longer able to care for your tortoise(s), or if you move from California, please contact this Society.
